Schwalbach am Taunus

Procter & Gamble commissioned AUKETT + HEESE to design a new office and research centre in Schwalbach/Taunus near Frankfurt.

The new five-level-building, approx. 20.000 sq.m. in size will house laboratories and open office areas which are orientated around an atrium with glass roof.

Furthermore the building will contain conference rooms, a library, a caféteria and a consumer interface area.

Not only the atrium and the open office space but also the technical orientated design of the facade will be characteristic for the appearance of the building.
